

When Pierre Laval returned to power as prime minister in 1942, he re-established the lodges and relieved Bernard Fay of his responsibility within the Vichy gouvernement's Secret Society Service. Fay received the following threat from « The ritual sacrifice : you wished to destroy freemasonry by revealing its secrets to the sacrilegious curiosity of the uninitiated, your days are numbered! ».